

Elementary school students do "something silly"

Inspired by a Shel Silverstein poem, students create silly sets, don silly costumes and put on a spectacularly silly concert—which is precisely what ES art and music teachers were hoping for.

On Friday, May 14th, parents, students, and teachers were treated to the 2-4th grade spring concert 'Something Silly' inspired by the poem 'Put Something In' by Shel Silverstein. Students were charged to put together their own silly costumes and they came through with flying colors, quite literally. Combined with the silly sets, designed by Beth Tucker and Robert Davis and decorated by first graders, the result was a visual display that put everyone in the mood for silliness.

Technology played a large role in this particular concert. Projected on two large screens were images that added another dimension to the performance. Programs used in the development of these slides include Keynote, Photoshop, iTunes, Comic Life, and Skitch. Several months ago, all but two songs were developed by both of us using the program Garageband and a Web site for each grade level with practice files and information was created using iWeb.

The show opened with second grade performing 'Bar of Soap' followed by 'Little Bunny Foo Foo'. They concluded their presentation with a mini-musical they developed themselves based on the book 'Click, Clack, Moo: Cows that Type' by Doreen Cronin. Such silliness, indeed!

The third graders performed two songs

Pudong campus middle school sets sail for MYGNITE

Small, five student bands entertained the crowd just before our buffet dinner was served. Most people then moved up to the third deck to dance and enjoy the wonderful scenery (enhanced by EXPO 2010) on both sides of the Bund.

As we ended our cruise and got ready to dock, Led Zeppelin's "Stairway to Heaven" played in the background, causing nostalgic smiles to appear on many chaperones' faces, who remembered their own middle school dances ending with the same song. Three Hundred plus happy but tired youngsters and adults piled off the boat, with bright memories to guide them in to the summer and next year.

The phrase "They clean up well" came to life on Friday evening, May 21, as Pudong campus middle school students participated in the 5th annual MYGNITE cruise. This PTSA-sponsored semi formal event is a social highlight of the year for students, who spent the evening cruising the HuangPu river in celebration of the end of the school year.

The event began even before the cruise, with a PTSA-provided snack in the cafeteria, and parents volunteering to help with hair and make-up in preparation for the night. Shedding their jeans and flipflops in favor of ties and dresses, the students then boarded buses for HuangPu, and the night that awaited them.

While the MYGNITE cruise is now a well-established tradition at Pudong campus middle school, this year we also tried something new. Under the guidance of Pudong's resident rocker Mr. Jordan that were simply ridiculous and full of fun. The first song, 'Catalina Magdalena Hoopensteiner Wallendiner Hogon Logan Bogan was her Name' featured students singing and playing recorders. Their second song, 'Kung Fu Playing' was a parody of the disco hit 'Kung Fu Fighting' during which students sang, played recorders, and showed off some very impressive dance moves. Amazing!

"MYGNITE Moms" get ready to board the ship.

Students in fourth grade performed three numbers: 'Sarasponda', 'Whacky Do Re Mi', and 'Danny and Dinah'. Students sang with great enthusiasm while playing Boomwackers, kazoos, a variety of non-pitched percussion instruments, and xylophones (played with chopsticks!)

Throughout the transitions, a select group of 3rd and 4th grade students performed silly skits and limericks. These talented, budding actors developed their material during an after school activity we led entitled Drama Fun. We even were treated to a special cameo role by Principal Sacha McVen in the 'Ugly Monster' skit!

'Something Silly' was a terrific success, but most certainly would not have been without the help of Amorsolo (Amox) Frayco and Stephen Li in the booth. Also invaluable was the support of our fabulous 2nd through 4th grade teachers and assistants.

Challenged Based Learning comes to middle school grade 7 advisory

By Lisa BUGENSKÉ, MS Science Teacher, Pudong Campus

PUDONG CAMPUS: Challenge Based Learning is a strategy that asserts that kids learn more and are more engaged when they are solving problems, especially authentic, real world problems. Here's what Apple is saying about it (<http://ali.apple.com/cbl/>):

“Challenge Based Learning is collaborative and hands-on, asking students to work with other students, their teachers, and experts in their communities and around the world to develop deeper knowledge of the subjects students are studying, accept and solve challenges, take action, share their experience, and enter into a global discussion about important issues.”

At SAS Pudong Campus, we presented our 7th grade advisories with a challenge: How can YOU make SAS Middle School a better place? After some brainstorming and planning, they came up with many ideas ranging from using less power to having a cultural music day. Students with like-minded ideas arranged themselves in groups to work on the ideas they were most interested in. Their goal was to create a presentation to share their idea with other students in mixed advisory classes. Students asked each other thought provoking questions that showed tremendous critical thinking skills. Due to time limitations, the four best presentations were chosen by the 7th grade advisory teachers to present to the whole 7th grade and then to try to put into action.

The Projects

- Install a windmill on campus (Daniel Hu)
- Print an appropriate number of EAGLES (Jenna Wang, Elisha Beebe, Aashika Ravi, Helen Yu, Christopher Huang)

- Install a water fountain in the MS (Gero Kassing & Parker Wilde)
- Plan a Bonding Day for 7th grade (Elaine Jiang, Nani Khumalo, Avani Verma, Brit-tany Zhang, Ben Zhou)

The Plans

Install a Windmill: Daniel has found local and international contacts and plans to email a local wind energy company in Shanghai to see if a site assessment is feasible. He would like to perhaps look for corporate donations and fundraising activities to support the project.

Print fewer EAGLES: The group plans to conduct a survey to determine how many EAGLES are needed for each advisory in the middle school and to be sure that the “young-est list” is up-to-date.

Install a Water Fountain: Gero and Parker have established an estimate for the cost of a water fountain and plumbing. They would like to meet with the SAS facilities group to ascertain the feasibility.

Bonding Day: This group of students has already implemented their project. They planned and held a Bonding Day for the entire 7th grade on May 7th. They did much of the planning on their own time and during lunches. Students were intentionally placed in groups with other students that they don't know well and then assigned a student leader and co-leader. Activities included team-building games like relay races, pass the orange, and building pyramids; team jeopardy (including a “teacher” category); and a fund-raiser where students were actually encouraged to throw wet sponges at their teachers. The day was well planned and everyone had a great time.

The Learning

When you read about the above projects and the objectives of Challenge Based Learning, it is easy to see the overlap. The students were engaged in very authentic learning as they identified problems and solutions, developed presentations, identified experts and resources, planned logistics, and worked with different people. They had deep conversations about friendship and how to encourage each other to build a stronger community, outside of their normal friendships. They had global discussions about the environment and how to save paper cups, use less paper, and embrace alternative energy sources. They shared their experiences with each other and were engaged because they felt they had a chance to make a difference.

Spring is in the Air

Spring is the time of year synonymous with allergies. As soon as grasses, trees, and flowers start to pollinate the symptoms begin. For sufferers of seasonal allergies this is not the most pleasant time of year.

An allergy is a condition where the body reacts adversely to certain substances (or allergens) in the environment. For sufferers of seasonal allergies, the main environmental trigger is pollen. Examples include grasses that pollinate in late spring to summer, tree particles that pollinate in early to late spring, and weeds that pollinate from early spring to early autumn.

Allergens can cause numerous unpleasant symptoms, including red, watery and itchy eyes, a runny, itchy or blocked nose, an itchy throat, sneezing, coughing, and shortness of breath. These symptoms usually develop shortly after coming into contact with the allergen.

In the case of a seasonal allergy sufferer, when pollen gets into the lining of the nose and eyes, the body releases histamine and other chemicals to combat the invader. This causes inflammation in the nose and eyes, which creates swelling and discharge. Sometimes the sinuses and throat are also affected. Pollens may even provoke or worsen asthma symptoms, depending on a person's unique sensitivities.

The key to managing spring allergies involves reducing your level of exposure to pollen and avoiding it completely, if possible. Seasonal allergy sufferers should stay indoors with doors and windows shut; particularly on days with strong winds, which can carry pollens miles through the air. Consider showering and washing hair after being outdoors, and don't forget to wear sunglasses to protect your eyes when there is a lot of pollen in the air.

Medications can also be used to combat symptoms. If there are only occasional symptoms, an antihistamine tablet can be used. If symptoms occur regularly or are constant, especially when the nose is blocked, it is best to use a corticosteroid nasal spray, often in combination with an antihistamine tablet.

SAS Puxi Campus Eagles' Track Team Soars Past Opponents

By Lou WEGENER, SAS Puxi Campus CISSA Coordinator

SAS Puxi Campus recently hosted CISSA's tenth annual track and field meet in which eight international schools from Suzhou, Hangzhou, and Puxi participated. Our junior and senior teams, who were very well-coached by Morgen Johnstone, flew past their opponents thanks to outstanding performances that were turned in by these very fit students:

Senior Division (grades 7 & 8):

- Jessica Lu 1st-long jump; 1st-high jump; 1st- 4 x 100 relay team; 2nd - high jump
- Richard Wu 1st - high jump
- Kiah Love-Latzky 1st – 1500; 1st- 4x 100 relay team; 2nd 400
- Jonathan Hanitio 1st – 100; 1st- 4 x 100 relay team
- Sohini Mukherjee 1st- 400; 1st-4x100 relay team

Junior Division (grade 6):

- Victoria Chiu 1st-100; 1st-400; 2nd-long jump; 2nd-4 x

- 100 relay team
- Maddie Oppelt 1st-1500
- Hanzhe Chen 1st-high jump; 2nd-long jump
- Matt Michaud 1st-400

Many of those students also performed quite well in the city-wide CISSA track meet hosted by the French School. Notable performances were also turned in at that meet by:

- Jessica Lu: 1st-relay team; 1st-long jump; 1st-100
- Lily Tan: 1st- relay team; 2nd - 100
- Hailey Tebbutt: 1st-relay team; 2nd -400
- Victoria Chou: 1st-relay team
- Terence Zhang : 1st-400
- Victoria Chiu: 1st-long jump; 2nd-100; 2nd-400; 2nd-relay team
- Dave Nopany: 2nd-high jump

SAS Puxi campus Lady Eagles basketball team caps undefeated season

By Lou WEGENER, SAS Puxi Campus CISSA Coordinator

Melissa Zhang and Jessica Lu ended their CISSA basketball careers in fine style this past week. Three years ago they were the only sixth graders playing on our Division 1 Selection Team that finished in third place. Last year they helped our team finish second (losing in four overtimes to Concordia).

This year they were on a mission to win it all. Jessica's outside shooting and Melissa's no look passes and unstoppable drives to the hoop for easy lay-ups led the team to a perfect season. This was also the first ever CISSA girls' basketball championship for SAS Puxi campus since the Division 1 tournaments were started three years ago.

They did not do it alone, however. Michelle Xu, Kiah Love-Latzke, and Jane Yang provided tough defense and out-rebounded much taller opponents to get the transition game going. Capable bench support by the rest of the team allowed SAS Puxi to dominate their opponents as the girls concluded their undefeated season (13 wins) with a 27-7 championship victory over Dulwich. Coach Paul Andersen has done a tremendous job developing his players' skills these past three years, and, without a doubt, they will make significant contributions to our APAC teams in the coming years.

This was the fifth championship by SAS Puxi campus CISSA teams this school year as they reached the finals in seven of the nine tournaments. Last year our Puxi campus' CISSA teams played in eight of the nine finals, winning four of them. I am optimistic that our campus will continue to experience this remarkable success since our dedicated coaches are all returning and enthusiasm is running high to continue this trend. The girls' championship was a sweet way to wrap up another successful sports year.

Third Place in Thailand Tropics

EAGLE photos by Jeanette Dixon

By Aquatics Directors Jon BIROS and George CARPOUZIS

Twenty-one well-tuned swimmers from Pudong and Puxi raced their heart out to top off another triumphant year of swim successes at BIS Phuket's Long Course International Invitational. Thailand's tropical temperature were perfect for this 50-meter outdoor pool event as our swimmers continued their paths to year end personal best times and successful team finishes.

When the two-day event was over the Aqua Eagles swam to a thrilling third place over all against 18 teams, just behind Singapore's Orchid Country Swim Club and BIS Phuket Flying Fish and second place in average points just behind the Orchid's.

Swimming strongly for valuable points were 8&U girls Tina Wang, Juliette Dajani, Linda Li, Poem Lin, and Megan Wang; 8&U Boys Nolan Liu, David Xue, Julian Kim, Alexander Tang and Ethan Young; 9-10

Boys Matthew Xu and Alex Dixon; 11-12 Girls Jessica Hu, Vivian Zhou and Vivian Xu; 11-12 Boys William Huang, Josh Wang and Tristan So; 13-14 Girls Carina Seah and 13-14 Boys Daniel Kong and Eric Hong.

Top scoring swimmers in their age groups for the Aqua Eagles were:

13-14 Girls Carina Seah Pd;
13-14 Boys Eric Hong Pd
11-12 Girls Jessica Hu Px
11-12 Boys Tristan So Px
9-10 Boys Matthew Xu Px

8 & Under Girls Tina Wang Px
8 & Under Boys David Xue Px

The BIS Invitational was an appropriately challenging meet for our swimmers and a wonderful venue in the tropics as swimmers, parents and coaching capped off the tour playing in late afternoon surf of a Phuket beach. Once again the coaches (Carpouzis, Biros and Yu) were amazed at and grateful for the parent support. Fourteen parents accompanied the team to Thailand and took on such tasks as marshaling, fan support, dining arrangements, photography etc. They helped to make this season ending trip a success and pleasure.

Magic studio, and the show will be aired on a Chinese channel, ICC, which currently documents a program named Culture Matters. This show features many expats of China, including the head of the Barcelona House, a dancer in the Spanish Pavilion, and even a teacher from SAS Pudong. In this show, the two groups represented both America and SASPX. Barbershop Girls sang three pieces; opening up the show was "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," a quiet, melodic piece from the famous Wizard of Oz, while "Charleston" was a sassy piece choreographed by junior Hae Ju Kang. Concluding the entire show was "Goodnight Sweetheart," a traditional Barbershop piece. Jazz Band performed the vivaciously dynamic "Soul Man," featuring solos from Marno van der Maas and Steven Pak, as well as truly amazing vocalists-dancers Xiang Yi Lau —see TELEVISION, on next page and Won Hyun Chang. The entire night, with the professional makeup and flashing lights, was really quite exciting.

In addition to the music performances, there were also interviews of students and teachers. It was insightful—and, of course, entertaining—to hear Ms. Siew and Ms. Pek talk about their musical backgrounds and experiences in the SAS Music Department. Even numerous students, such as Elsie Ling, Megan Tan, Claire Johnson and Marno van der Maas were interviewed about their nationality, future plans, and thoughts on the Expo.

Besides the cheek muscles stiff from smiling and feet sore from high heels, the musicians take home a remarkable experience that, hopefully, have encouraged their dedication to music and will inspire other students to further develop their musical talents.
