US Consul General visits SAS Pudong

Shanghai American School welcomed U.S. Consul General Beatrice Camp to its Pudong campus on February 17, 2011. Camp addressed 200 parents at a PTSA meeting and participated in Korean Culture Day festivities. Consular Officer Mattan Meyer from the Consulate's American Citizen Services department described its programs. Camp also met with high school seniors, discussing her career in the U.S. Foreign Service and offering advice to students about their educational plans and desires to pursue careers in diplomacy. The photos here depict the Consul General interacting with the students, greeting faculty and administration and at various locations throughout the campus.

Nanta performance for Korean Day

Our very own SAS Pudong campus high school students put on a special performance of Nanta to celebrate Korean Day Thursday, February 17, in front of the cafeteria. Nanta is a famous form of Korean percussion that uses everyday objects and implements to create the Korean traditional rhythm, Samulnori. Everyone came to experience Korean culture with a slightly modern twist! Tasty Korean snacks such as Dukbokki, spicy rice cake, were also on sale during the performance for all to enjoy. Through Nanta, the whole school was able to get a colorful taste of Korean culture and celebrate the culturally diverse atmosphere that SAS has to offer!

One Day. One Campus. One Conference.

By Vinay NAGARAJ, Junior, Puxi Campus

With considerable peace of mind, Jessica Shen slowly walked down the steps in the Performing Arts Center (PAC), having just given a heartfelt speech to over 200 people. Memories of the past tiresome months flashed through her mind: communicating back and forth to the MUN directors of various schools around Shanghai, arranging for Eurest to provide food, and even delegating a plethora of trivial assignments to MUN members including stuffing binders and copying sheets of paper. However, she had a smile on her face because her biggest task as the president of Model United Nations at SAS was finally complete. The annual SHAMUN conference on February 18, 2011, had been a great success.

For 12 years, Shanghai American School Puxi has been hosting its own Shanghai Model United Nations conference (SHAMUN), which has grown incredibly over the past few years. This year, in fact, eight different schools participated, which resulted in the gathering of over 150 MUN delegates

Behind the leadership of our Jessica Shen and the guidance of the MUN Directors this year, every aspect of SHAMUN ran smoothly from start to finish. At eight o'clock, the delegates from the other schools promptly walked through the doors of the Performing Arts Center. The atmosphere, which had been serene just a few moments ago, suddenly transformed into one filled with bustling chatter. Luckily, our Varsity MUN team, the host of the conference, was prepared. In the half hour that followed, binders and nametags were handed out to all the delegates, who were swiftly ushered into their respective forums so that could debate could commence as soon as possible.

Throughout the day, productive discussions were pervasive in all four forums, which were located in different venues around the campus including the PAC and the Library Media Center (LMC) Lecture Hall. The General Assembly, which had the largest number of delegates, passed a creative resolution on solving the issue of an arms race in outer space. Secondly, the Economic and Social forum also narrowly passed a controversial resolution regarding a global suspension of the death penalty. Moreover, the most powerful forum, the Security Council, passed a resolution pertaining to nuclear weapons in Iran. Last, the International Court of Justice, which focuses on conflicts between two member states, covered the territorial dispute of the Diaoyu Islands between China and Japan.

An aspect of SHAMUN that often goes unnoticed is the hard work of those who work behind the scenes during the conference, similar to stagehands who set up props in a play. The admin, for instance, were middle school students, and they worked tirelessly to pass notes between delegates through the course of the conference. Without them, communication during discussions would have almost been nonexistent, preventing debates from being truly fruitful. Other equally valuable constituents were the SHAMUN student officers, who served as experienced facilitators in order to keep the debate moving in a constructive manner.

Emulating the procedures of the United Nations itself, the twelfth annual SHAMUN conference provided a means for students to represent various nations and think from different perspectives. Especially for the younger students, SHAMUN functioned as a training ground to develop confidence, speaking skills and creativity. Indeed, it is successful conferences like SHAMUN that breed the leaders of tomorrow, which is the essence of Model United Nations.

Junkyard Wars

By Abby PAN, ES Student Reporter, Puxi Campus

The fifth grade hallway was filled with loud shouts and pops, cheers and groans, and a variety of boxes and bottles flying everywhere. It was War day for the fifth graders. Why? Because the fifth graders were having Junkyard Wars! On that fateful day, another day of Beyonda Box was about to unfold.

Abby Pan

Then, a task is given to each group — for example, to detach 10 paper clips without using your hands, or to build a flagpole out of only newspapers.

For the February Beyonda Box, the task was to build a Rube Goldberg machine. A Rube Goldberg machine is a machine that makes a simple task, like turning on the Christmas tree lights, into something extremely complicated. The task for the fifth graders was to create as many steps as possible in a Rube Goldberg machine to pop a balloon.

A month before Junkyard Wars started, fifth graders had started to collect cardboard boxes, plastic bottles, and toilet paper tubes so that they could be used in the Junkyard. Students in Jennifer Egan's class were in charge of sorting and monitoring all junk, and by the time Junkyard Wars started, piles of junk were overflowing the boxes in the Junkyard, and piles of boxes were piled higher than some of the students! Every time a student brought in 10 items, they would receive a raffle ticket. On the day of Junkyard Wars, a teacher would reach into the raffle ticket jar and pull out a few tickets. The lucky students would then get a prize. There were also awards for the most steps, the most cooperative group, the most creative machine, and so on.

Many of the machines were creative and full of different steps, but only a few kids managed to get their machines to work properly. Sometimes a box would fall the wrong way, or a ball would roll off course. A balloon might move too far away to pop. Teachers decided how well a group worked together, or how creative a machine was, and at the end of the day, awards were given to the groups that were noted the most by teachers.

A wide variety of machines were created, with balls rolling and bouncing, boxes and bottle toppling, strings snapping, pulleys rolling, wheels turning, and seesaws going up and down. One machine was triggered by a ball rolling down a slope, which then hit a series of dominoes, which were supposed to fall on a pair of scissors, which would cut a string that would drop the balloon and a weight onto a pin that would make the balloon go "POP!"

Another machine involved a basketball which pushed a row of dictionaries into a line of boxes with a pin attached to it which punctured the balloon that was taped to the floor.

Yet another machine was started by cutting a string that would pull a contraption with the pin attached to it right above the balloon and pop it.

Eventually, at the end of the day, the machines were taken apart and thrown into large piles in the Junkyard that were to be cleaned up later. Items were returned to their rightful places, and everyone returned to the classrooms, tired but happy.

It truly was one of the most chaotic days of fifth grade ever.

Construction begins on Puxi campus classroom building

By Ed KIDD, HS Principal, Puxi Campus

Our house was not unfeeling matter - it had a heart and a soul, and eyes to see with; and approvals and solicitudes and deep sympathies; it was of us, and we were in its confidence and lived in its grace and in the peace of its benedictions. —Mark Twain

With the whiz-bang of fireworks and offerings to the Earth God, the construction on the new Puxi campus high school building officially commenced Thursday, February 17. At 8:18am sharp (the auspicious time was recommended by a monk) the first pilings were slowly and silently driven deep into the Puxi campus soil as students, teachers and administrators looked on.

A ceremonial offering table filled with fish, duck, a pig's head, wine, fruit and sweets was in place to ensure a flawless and successful construction project. Project Managers Dave and Yi Triplett who have overseen the construction of most buildings on both SAS campuses, attended the opening ceremony.

The new three-floor building will include 28 new classrooms, a purpose-built Fine Arts wing that includes a dark room, ceramics studio and media room, and an Athletic Director's Office and Conference room. The building will also feature a second floor "sky walk" that ties the main building to the new structure.

With good fortune, teachers and students will move into their new classrooms on the first day of school, 2011-2012!

Theater mania hits Puxi campus

By Debbi FINTAK, HS Drama Teacher, Puxi Campus

Fringe theater returns again for its fourth year. Ten productions will grace the high school stages for just the cost of one ticket! No shows can be repeated! We dare you to take them all in!

Mainstage Show: The Matchmaker by Thornton Wilder
Wilder's play The Matchmaker is a farce which uses such time-honored conventions as characters hidden under tables and in closets, men disguised as women, a complex conspiracy to bring young lovers together, and a happy ending in which three couples are united with plans to marry. The Matchmaker was itself adapted as Hello, Dolly!, which ranks as one of Broadway's longest-running musicals.

IB Class Presentations: Hiroshima
IB year 1 classes have been preparing since Christmas holiday for their contributions to the festival. This production of Hiroshima: A Crucible of Light by Robert Lawson is a fractured tale of the atomic bomb influenced by history, Shakespeare, Chinese puppet theater, mythology and parody. It will be a multimedia event with the concept "The blinding chaos of war's ambitions and fears lead to exploding disasters." This is a tale for mature audiences.

Mini Plays—student directed
This portion of the festival has become a highlight for most audience goers. Plays are usually brief, 5-10 min, and student rehearsed and directed. Six mini plays are featured this year by the following student directors:

- The Boor directed by Aberdeen LaPlume
- Untitled #2 directed by Jodie Chiang
- The Lovely People directed by Eilie Sinclair
- Playwriting 101 directed by Jessica Fintak
- Love, Lunch and Losers directed by Manasi Menon
- The History of Why the Chicken Crossed the Road by Lucy Wang

In addition the eighth grade drama classes will perform short pieces directed by Juanita McGarrigle.

Swimmers find a place in the Manila sun

By Jon BIROS and George CARPOUZIS, Directors, Aquatics Center, Puxi and Pudong Campuses

Thirty-one well-prepared and excited swimmers of the Pudong / Puxi School Wide Swim Team (SWST) raced their heart out in this first meet of the Spring season with a strong showing at the International School of Manila 2011 Invitational February 19-20. The Philippine's tropical temperature was perfect for this 25-meter outdoor pool event. When the two-day meet was complete the Aqua Eagles swam to a sterling 2nd place against eight teams, just behind the host school ISM and ahead of 3rd place Brent Manila, both of which had almost three times as many swimmers as did our schoolwide team.

Traveling coaches Boyko, Biros, Carpouzis and McVean were impressed with the Aqua Eagles performance. Together with our traveling parents we were recognized as the most spirited team at the meet. And we had a lot to cheer about: 90% of our swimmers swam at least one personal best (PB) in this meet and the team as a whole placed 3rd in "PB percentages per event" with 63% of our events a PB. The Puxi campus 9-10 age group swimmer, Julia Markmann, won the girl's Most Improved Swimmer trophy while Pudong campus swimmer, Michael Grenon, won the prestigious Federation Internationale Natation

Amateur (FINA) Points Best Performance trophy with his lightening 2:19.57 in the 200 meter Individual Medley event.

All 31 Aqua Eagles swam strongly for valuable team points. Top scorers in the meet and collecting an Age Group High Points Trophy were:

- 15 & Over Girls Lydia Oldham PD, 1st place and Jessica Hao PD 3rd place
- 15 & Over Boys Johnny Tan PD, 2nd place
- 13-14 Girls Carina Seah PD, 1st place
- 13-14 Boys Michael Grenon PD, 1st place and Callum Ingram PD, 3rd place
- 11-12 Girls Meghan Ingram PD, 1st place and Jacqui Johnson PD, 3rd place
- 11-12 Boys Tristan So PX, 1st place
- 9-10 Boys Jun Sung Tak PX, 1st place
- 9-10 Girls Tina Wang PX, 1st place
- 8 & Under Boys Julien Kim PX, 2nd place

On Saturday all five SAS A-group Relay Teams placed 1st in the Medley Relays. This was an amazing accomplishment and a first for the SWST. On Sunday's Freestyle Relays

SAS had three 1st place finishes and two 2nd place finishes.

The ISM Invitational was an appropriately challenging meet for all our swimmers and for a few like Michael Sun, Cecilia, Julia and Sarah Markmann, Lachlan Dibbayawan, India Atkin, Margaret Lawler and Lindsay Hanson it was their first International Traveling meet. Cheering them on were an incredible group of 21 parents who accompanied the team to Manila. Their cheering and support helped pave the way to a successful swimming weekend.

The SAS swimmers were great both in the pool and out of the pool. They were well-behaved during the meet, at the school, airport, on the airplane and around the city, representing SAS as great ambassadors. We can be proud of their accomplishments as swimmers and as students.
